Product Liability

"Andrew is a clear, forceful and utterly charming advocate. He reads the Court very well and quickly builds an effective rapport with the bench".

"Calm, unflappable, straight talking. One of my go-to leaders on complex cases because he is intellectual and strategic".

"A very bright and charming silk, who is great with judges and clients. Unassuming but with a core of steel. He recognises that sometimes the fight is what you have to do to achieve your strategic goals".

Andrew is a leading specialist in defence-side product liability work and has been recommended by Chambers

& Partners and the Legal 500 for more than 15 years. His product liability practice includes many of the largest and most high-profile cases of the past few decades including NOx emissions, Asbestolux/Marinite, Seroxat, Metal-on-Metal hip implants, combined hip prostheses, pelvic mesh, PIP breast implants and vaccines. He is described as a “rising star” and “a leading figure in defence work” who receives very high praise for his involvement in complex product liability cases, particularly those concerning defective medical devices and pharmaceuticals. He is also recommended as “a very stylish advocate. He is confident, articulate and persuasive”.

He is a contributor to the “International Product Law Manual” published by Kluwer.
