Prior to joining Chambers, Georgina read History of Art at Cambridge University, obtaining a Starred First and ranking top of her cohort. For her GDL and BPTC she was awarded an Astbury Scholarship and the Queen Mother Scholarship from Middle Temple.

Previously, she has worked as a professional chef in various London kitchens. During her legal studies she spent time as a capital defence intern at a non-profit law firm in Philadelphia, where she assisted with appeals for incarcerated individuals. She has also volunteered at various organisations, including Refuge and Citizens' Advice Bureau.

Georgina is open for instruction across all areas of Chambers' practice.
